Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

I AM getting a big "kick" out of reading the confidential remarks written by the farmers on their Star straw-balls on the Bankhead Law. The remarkable feature is that while nearly every producer finds something wrong with the cotton administration, most of them are going along with the present program as a "matter of principle."

Business Gains on Holiday Trade; But Income Taxes Drop

Actual Merchandise Moved Is Highest Since 1929 Peak

BIG INCOMES GAIN But Those Under $25,000 a Year, and Total, Show Decline

NEW YORK.—(AP)—The flow of Yuletide spirit permeated through the nation's business during the past week as the Christmas shopping season opened with such a bang that trade authorities predicted the physical volume of merchandise sold this month would be the highest since 1929, and the dollar value the best since 1930.

At the same time, however, usually almost dormant toward the end of the year, showed further stirrings. The publication Steel estimated that steel works operations had risen to 30 per cent of capacity last week, compared with 28 per cent the week before, and pointed to one of the sharpest rises in steel scrap prices since the World War.

The automobile industry is slow in getting into production with its new models, but production has at last started to climb, with one of the largest volume manufacturers beginning assemblies of 1935 models. Industrial activity as a whole remains spotty, as is to be expected at this time of year.

Dun & Bradstreet's weekly mercantile review said cold weather had instilled fresh vigor into the flow of merchandise at retail, which, coinciding with the swarming of stores by Christmas shoppers, boosted totals from five to 25 per cent above last year at this time. Sharpest gains are still reported from the South and Southwest, where merchants report sales 20 to 25 per cent above 1933. But despite a few days of rain and snow, the Middle West was able to report advances of 15 to 20 per cent.

"Rich Get Richer" WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Twenty-six more million dollar incomes in 1933 than in 1932 and 81,000 fewer incomes of $5,000 or less were reported Sunday by the Internal Revenue Bureau.

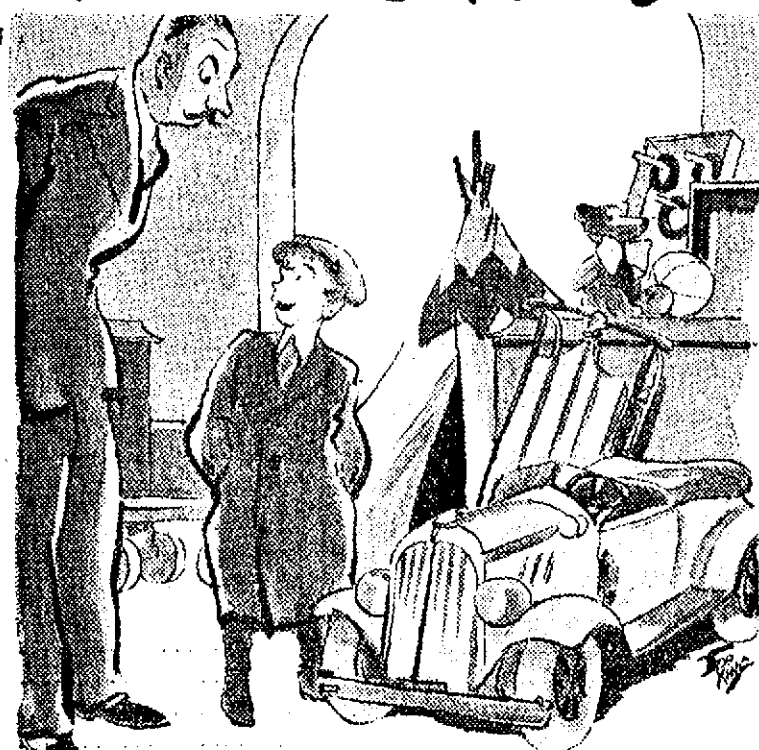

The figures served to concentrate attention upon the recurrent campaign for some redistribution of the nation's wealth, advanced in various forms by some advisors of the administration and many members of Congress—notably Huey Long of Louisiana.

The figures showed, generally, a shrinkage in the number of incomes in all brackets up to $25,000 and an increase in the categories above that figure.

In 1932 a total of 3,420,995 individuals reported net income of $5,000 or

Slavs Withdraw Order Expelling Hungarians, at Powers' Request

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia.—(AP)—High government officials told the Associated Press Monday that Yugoslavia will take no independent measures against Hungary should the League of Nations rule against Yugoslavia and in favor of Hungary in the two nations' present disputes.

"This declaration, it was said, was to dispose of the wide-spread fear that war might break out if the League ruled against Yugoslavia.

Deportations Stopped BELGRADE, Yugoslavia.—(AP)—Deportation of Hungarians from this country was stopped abruptly Sunday.

The order to cease expelling Hungarians was issued soon after the return of Prince Paul, head of the body of regents governing Yugoslavia on behalf of the child King Peter, from London, where he attended the recent royal wedding.

Instructions to military and local officials to halt the mass deportations came from the Department of the Interior and outwardly there was no indication Prince Paul had dictated the change of policy.

Hope was expressed in diplomatic circles that the danger of an armed clash on the border in the vicinity of Szeged had been averted at least for the time being.

Influenced by Powers It was said in diplomatic quarters that the Yugoslav government had been prevailed upon to change its attitude by the great powers, who are represented at sessions of the League of Nations Council at Geneva, and that the chief influence had been exerted by Great Britain and France.

The Interior Department's order was implicit. It provided that even Hungarians whose working permits have expired be permitted to remain. There were no indications whether those already ousted would be allowed to return.

It was estimated that about 2,700 Hungarians have been expelled since the movement began a few days ago.

In quarters close to the government the statement was made that some of the hardships which fell upon deportees were due to the overzealousness of local officials, rather than from orders from Belgrade.

Many of those deported remained at Szeged, across the Hungarian border, where a school has been converted into a sort of barracks for housing them.

A. B. McCorkle in New Sales Post Leaves State Printing Clerkship for Western Newspaper Union

Announcement was made to the newspaper trade Monday that A. B. McCorkle, formerly of Hope, a brother of Ed McCorkle of the Arkansas Printing & Stationery Co., was leaving the office of state printing clerk at Little Rock to represent Western Newspaper Union, newspaper and printers' suppliers, on the road.

Mr. McCorkle will travel in Arkansas and Louisiana, with Little Rock as his headquarters. Before assuming the state printing clerk's office he was for many years Arkansas representative of the American Type Foundry Co.

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill.—(AP)—Sheriff Henry Siekmann said Monday that the slaying Saturday of James Hickey, Shelton gangster, by county authorities was believed to have thwarted a plot to kidnap G. Locke Tackett, wealthy public works contractor.

Where Balkan Pot Seethes With War

The boiling Balkans, constant threat to the peace of Europe and the world for 50 years, are again covered by war clouds. Present crisis between Yugoslavia and Hungary is only one of a series since the World War settlements. At Szeged, on the south border of Hungary, present trouble centers. Note Sarajevo, just below the letters "O" and "S" at "Yugo-Slavia," where a political assassination started the World War. Yugo-Slavia, Czechoslovakia and Rumania are united in the Little Entente, supported more or less actively by France. Hungary and Austria are close friends, and Italy has been pronouncedly favorable to both, having supported Austria during a recent dispute with Yugo-Slavia, with whom it clashes on Adriatic questions. This complete map of the Balkan section may well be preserved for reference as events develop.

Judgment Against Insurance Upheld

Exemption Denied in Suit Arising Prior to Insured's Death

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court, in line with a recent decision in an Arkansas case, Monday held that Mrs. Leticia B. Goodwin, of El Dorado, is not entitled to exemption under the life insurance policy left by her late husband.

The court said that the Union chancery court decision holding that the proceeds of an insurance policy are not subject to garnishment was in line with its decision last winter in the Worthen vs. Thomas case, but that the United States Supreme Court had reversed the state appellate tribunal.

W. R. Peters and J. W. Cramer had been given judgment jointly against Goodwin and his wife, which judgment remained unpaid.

In another case the court held that the mere exercise of poor business judgment is not sufficient to form a basis for liability of a bank president to a depositor, reversing Boone circuit court.

Kennedy Cleared in Jacket Fight

Traffic Cases Against N. P. O'Neal, C. Schooley, Dismissed

"Red" Kennedy, accused in a three-way mixup with Jewel Monts and Virgil White over the disappearance of a leather jacket, was acquitted of petit larceny charges in a decision handed down by Special Municipal Judge Steve Carrigan, it was announced Monday.

White, charged with petit larceny, was found guilty and was fined $10 and sentenced to 10 days in jail. The fine was suspended, provided the defendant left and stayed away from Hope.

Monts was found guilty of simple assault and was fined $10. This appearance of the jacket, claimed by Monts, led to a fight between White and Monts, resulting in the filing of simple assault charges against Monts.

Charges of violating traffic regulations against N. P. O'Neal and Carl Schooley were dismissed on motion of City Attorney W. S. Atkins.

Lonnie Madison, charged with larceny, forfeited a $10 cash bond. L. E. Hunt was given a $10 suspended fine for drunkenness after entering a plea of guilty.

Lee Wesley, drunkenness, fined $10 on plea of guilty.

Custer Payne, failure to pay rent and refusal to surrender dwelling house, continued until December 17. The defendant, however, agreed to vacate the house within the next three days.

Elroy Foster, drunkenness, fined $15 on guilty plea.

List of Polling Places for Bankhead Vote Friday Revised

Secret Ballot Provided All Voters—Speedy Tabulation for Newspapers Is Requested

A revised and corrected list of polling places for the federal referendum on the Bankhead Law in Hempstead county Friday, December 14, was announced in Hope Monday by County Agent Frank Stanley.

No name, number or other identifying mark, except the name of the county and community, may be placed on the ballots to be used in the referendum on the Bankhead cotton control act which will be held Friday throughout the South. T. Roy Reid, assistant director in charge of the state Agricultural Extension Service, announced.

Instructions to that effect are being sent to all county agents and to adjustment committees, who will be in charge of the referendum, which will afford farmers the opportunity to vote for retention or abandonment of the act.

Committees are being advised to re-lease totals to newspapers as soon as they are compiled and to co-operate fully with newspapers in making the results available with the least delay possible.

The polling places follow: Bodewad: Patmos, Sardis, Stephenson School House.

Bois d'Arc: Fulton, McNab, DeRozan: Arkansas Bank, City Hall, DeRozan: Rocky Mound, Shover Springs.

Garland: DeAnn.

Grain: Cross Roads, Jatajones, Ozan.

Washington: Redland: McCaskill, Friendship, Spring Hill: Columbus, Saratoga.

Wallaceburg: Blevins, Deanyville.

Water Creek: Guernsey.

Homer Wilcox, 17, Linked With Son of Federal Judge

Booked for "Malicious Mischief" in Course of Murder Probe

ANOTHER IS SUICIDE

Sidney Born, 19, Kills Self After Trying to Reach Kennamer

TULSA, Okla.—(AP)—Homer F. Wilcox, Jr., 17-year-old son of a wealthy Tulsa oil man, was arrested Monday after he and his father appeared at police headquarters for a conference in connection with the slaying of John Gorrell.

He was booked on a charge of malicious mischief. Asked what would constitute malicious mischief in this instance, Police Chief Charles Carr said:

"Well, shooting out street-lights in the vicinity where Gorrell was slain by Phil Kennamer, would be it."

Earlier in the case Chief Carr said he found that two street-lights in the immediate vicinity of the fatal shooting had been broken by bullets, leaving the scene in darkness overnight.

Another Commits Suicide

TULSA, Okla.—(AP)—Nineteen-year-old Sidney Born, Jr., who admitted police said, that he drove Phil Kennamer to his fatal rendezvous with John Gorrell, 23, a student dentist Thanksgiving night, died at Morning-side hospital Sunday night from a bullet which officers declared was self-inflicted.

Born, son of a University of Tulsa professor and consulting engineer, had been in Tulsa for a short time.

Automatic fired through his brain. Detective Sergeant Henry Maddux, in charge of the investigation of the Gorrell shooting, said he was "satisfied" young Born shot himself after making an unsuccessful attempt to communicate by telephone with Kennamer, 19, in the county jail. Police said young Born drove Kennamer to the vicinity where Gorrell was killed.

Kennamer, son of Federal Judge Franklin E. Kennamer, has admitted, police said, that he shot Gorrell, and claimed self-defense as the motive.

After hearing a rumor that Wade Thomas, operator of a beer parlor where the boys of Kennamer's age congregated often, had been shot to death, officers learned that he had not been injured and that no attempt on his life had been made. Thomas was released from jail Friday where he had been held since a half hour after Kennamer surrendered a week ago.

Reject Theory of Suicide Professor Born and his physician, Dr. L. D. Northrup, refused to accept the suicide theory of Maddux.

"Sidney was too level-headed," said the elder Born. "He never would do such a thing."

"I have known this boy since he was five," said Dr. Northrup. "I don't believe he killed himself."

Maddux, however, cited the short elapsed time from the moment the Born boy tried to telephone Kennamer, and when his bleeding body was found crumpled beneath the wheel of his motor car.

"There wasn't more than five or ten minutes' difference," said Maddux.

Stomach Works Well, Despite Faddists

Everywhere you look today are advertisements, announcements and promotional material of food faddists. To push their ideas, they must have some unusual notion of what happens to the food in the human body. They do not hesitate to contradict established facts of science and established knowledge of years.

The average human stomach reacts in a certain definite way to most food substances. There are, of course, variations.

The amount of time required for the stomach to empty itself depends largely on the kind of food put into it. Most persons have a digestive time in the stomach of about four hours.

An investigator recently studied the digestion of meat as a protein and of potatoes as a carbohydrate in a number of invalids. He found that there is no incompatibility between meat and potatoes or between proteins and carbohydrates in general.

Nevertheless, there are a half dozen food faddists who insist that it is not well to mix proteins and carbohydrates and that such mixtures are responsible for a large amount of illness.

The stomach, even in persons with fairly serious illnesses, proceeds quite promptly to break up meat fibers when they reach it. It also acts at the same time on the carbohydrates.

In 50 persons who suffered from various chronic diseases, one-fourth of a pound of hamburger steak was digested in 3 hours and 50 minutes.

One-fourth of a pound of hamburger steak and one-half of a pound of mashed potatoes was digested in 3 hours and 54 minutes. When a small amount of butter (about three ounces) was added to this mixture, the time was lengthened to four hours and two minutes.

As a result of all these investigations, it was found that there was no evidence at all to indicate that proteins and carbohydrates are incompatible in the stomach.

It is quite likely that many people overeat, and that these people do better with a lessened amount of carbohydrates. However, control of the diet is a serious matter, and it is not well for people to be guided by those selling strange notions without scientific background.

Finally, it is a well-established fact that nature itself mixes proteins and carbohydrates, and that practically every food we eat is a mixture of such basic substances.

A BOOK A DAY

By BRUCE CATTON

So Nathan Objected to Mencken's Collar—Did That Cause the Split? Anyway, Something Did?

One of the strangest literary quarrels of modern times—the row that ended the collaboration of H. L. Mencken and George Jean Nathan—is touched upon in Burton Rasco's preface to "The Smart Set Anthology."

This book is a memento of the great days of that collaboration, when Mencken and Nathan, together with Willard Huntington Wright, made the old "Smart Set" the most original and independent magazine of its kind in America. Naturally, then, the preface is concerned with the obscure tiff that ended the collaboration.

Mr. Rasco can't find out just what happened. Nathan says he does not know unless, he adds, the fact that he once criticized Mencken's collar, causing the Baltimore sage to fly into a rage, is responsible.

Mencken is not quoted at all. But that the break is still unhealed is indicated by the fact that he has refused to let any of his "Smart Set" writings appear in this anthology.

New Mother Should Turn to Books for Guidance

The new mother with her first baby lies in the hospital getting her strength back and wondering.

She hasn't much faith in herself yet as a mother. That little pink creature sleeping his head off somewhere out there down the long corridor for her to nurse and cocoon and then be removed from her room until next time.

All the mysterious processes that go on now far from her ears and eyes will be her job after the next few days.

How will she manage it? She just knows he will stop gaining—that he'll have colic, that he probably will get a thrushy mouth and head scales and all those terrible things she's heard about.

Well—he'll do none of them very likely.

But this thought does stay in her subconscious mind, "What would I do if so and so happens? Is he really all right now? Would I know if something were wrong?"

A Book Mother

When I was at that stage of motherhood, I one day brought a book by Dr. L. Emmet Holt on "The Care and Feeding of Children."

I was a sort of curiosity among women and the butt for many jokes. "She is bringing up her baby by book," they laughed. A "book" baby was like a queer kind of beetle and the mother was to be treated gently on account of her addled brain.

But the time came, and soon, when many women would not have thought of attempting motherhood without some potent guide at hand to turn to, not only in a crisis, but for simple rules of daily hygiene and feeding.

I have always urged mothers to provide themselves with a dependable "baby book." It is not only a comfort but a real relief.

Recently one of Dr. Holt's associates in New York, an other famous pediatricist, has written "Healthy Babies Are Happy Babies"—Dr. Josephine H. Kenyon. This book takes the baby by weeks, then by months, up to three years. It is splendid. I like every word of it.

One On Home Nursing

Another famous doctor also has written a book that I swear by. It is called "Infants and Children," by Dr. Frederic H. Bartlett.

A volume on home nursing, bristling with knowledge is "Amateur Nurse," by Mary Wright Wheeler, R. N. It's name describes it. It tells all the tricks of the sick room from infancy to old age and takes home nursing out of the "guess" class.

There are other books on babies and children and their physical care. The best way is to the mother to go herself to the book shop and ask to be shown various volumes from which she may select the one or two that appeal to her personally.

The time is gone, thank goodness, when the neighbors make fun of the book baby. And the mother, herself, won't need to lie awake and wonder what to do next. She can't be calling the doctor every day to ask advice, although she must, when something serious happens—and these books insist that she do it.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

Processes of Dying Hair Are Safe

The day a woman discovers the few gray hairs have multiplied and become patches of white, she simply has to make the widely discussed on-to-dye decision. If she decides to color her hair at all, this is the time to do it. If not, she should plan a coiffure that will be flattering and then do all she can to keep the gray hairs as white as snow.

Getting your hair dyed isn't the intricate, mysterious and vastly annoying business it used to be. Nowadays, every reliable beauty shop has its operator who understands every type of hair and who knows how to cover graying and white locks. Make sure that she uses a well-known and reputable dye and that she pays close attention to you while it is on your hair.

It is possible, of course, to dye your own hair. However, it's best to have the first two or three treatments in a shop to learn how it should be done and exactly what shade you need. Generally speaking, you should buy a dye that is at least one, sometimes two, shades lighter than your hair. That way, the gray becomes the color used to be and the hair that hasn't turned doesn't get too dark.

If you decide against dye, remember that the charm of gray hair lies in its smooth, clean, shiny and well-groomed appearance. Keep on with hot oil treatments and don't forget about brushing.

HARRY GRAYSON

NEW YORK.—Paradoxically, boxing is more firmly entrenched in the colleges than ever while staggering along professionally.

Perhaps it will be the rah rah lar-rupers who eventually will restore interest in the pro dodge.

But what I'm trying to get at is that alumni and undergraduates soon may be rushing preparatory school mitt-slingers with as much ingenuity and enthusiasm as they do pigskin prospects.

For boxing, long a major activity at Culver and other military and prep schools, has spread to high schools.

There have been stray instances of leather pushing in high schools, but the Central New York Interscholastic Boxing Championships, scheduled for Syracuse University, on March 19 and 20, will be the first tournament of its kind ever staged.

Syracuse is a member of the Eastern Intercollegiate Boxing Association, and, inspired by meets there, a dozen neighboring high schools took to the mat last year.

Ray Simmons, the Orange boxing instructor, says 15 schools will compete in the Central New York Interscholastic tournament, and that there will be so many entries that a limit will have to be placed on them.

Hamas Prize Product

There is intense interest in the Eastern Intercollegiate, which are to be held in Philadelphia this winter. The ring sport runs football a close second in Dixie and thrives in California and other sections. Only the gridiron game produced more revenue at Wisconsin last year and boxing has advanced to that extent at many seats of higher learning throughout the land.

Stude Cutler and George Lambert, Navy's fine tackle, are the Academy's heavy and light-heavyweight boxing champions, respectively.

Keen judges suspect that a world heavyweight champion was lost when Al Lassman, New York University captain and tackle, met such a sad and untimely end following a tragic football injury several years ago.

Steve Hamas, whose decisions over Max Schmeling and Al Lasky entitle him to top ranking among the challengers of Max Baer, is a product of college boxing.

Hamas tells an amusing story of his first start in the ring and his winning the Eastern Intercollegiate title in his first effort.

Penn State's squad was going to Syracuse for the tournament. Leo Houck, the old middleweight who teaches the Nittany Lions, had been beseeching Hamas to come out for the team, but throughout the earlier meets the star fullback remained firm in his decision not to have his nose dented.

Safer Than It Sounded

But a couple of days away from isolated State College is worth a considerable risk to a college boy, and Hamas asked to be included in the Syracuse party.

Arriving at Syracuse, Hamas sat in a hotel room with Houck reading the sports section of a local newspaper.

A streamer caught his eye.

"So-And-So Out for Twentieth Straight Kayo," it screamed.

"Who's going to fight this guy?" chuckled Hamas, turning to Houck.

"You are," replied the tutor.

"I was so afraid that all I did was stick out my left hand to keep him away from me," beams Hamas. "He got tired running into it, and they gave me the decision."

In such strange ways do heavyweight championship contenders obtain their starts.

There is no safer place for a boxer to make his bow than in college, where the sport is strictly supervised and where boys are properly instructed to box abbreviated rounds. Too frequently all the fight is knocked out of a boy before he knows how to hold up his hands.

Whis is one of many reasons why in the near future we may see a college crowd take over a fight arena, and yell, "Block that hook!" instead of "Block that kick!"

Lovable

BEGIN HERE TODAY

ANN HOLISTER, pretty and 20, does work in a library. She falls in love with TONY KICKLE, though, without meeting him, by her room-mate, SARAH KENT.

Later Ann meets PETER KENDALL, wealthy and prominent, and engages to VALLERIE, NEPT, society girl. Without Peter's knowledge Vallerie goes about with a gay set. One night she attends a party at which a man is shot. Peter, learning how Vallerie has deceived him, tells her her engagement is at an end.

The same day Ann breaks her engagement to Tony. She and Peter meet in a restaurant and discuss their mutual unhappiness. When he asks her to marry him she agrees. They are married that night and set out for Florida.

The first day after the arrival there Ann falls from an airplane. Peter rescues her and is disturbed to realize how much he is attracted by his pretty "friend wife."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVI

ANN went to her room, undressed and got in bed. The day that had started out well had gone flat, somehow.

Downstairs Peter smoked several cigars. He heard Ann's light steps above as she moved about the room. Finally, all was still. He got up then and went upstairs. Ann heard his door open and close. After a little she was asleep.

She slept deeply, restfully, until suddenly she was wide awake. A shriek, a wild yell that shattered the stillness brought her to a sitting position.

"Peter! Peter!" Almost instantly the door was flung open and Peter was silhouetted there in his dark robe. He came over to her bed.

"Ann, what in the world—were you screaming?"

"N. of course not."

He sat down on the bed. Then they heard the door open.

"Peter, what is it?" She was clinging to him.

"It sounds like the devil—like hell's turned loose," Peter said. He gently disengaged her arms and stood up.

"Get up and lock your door, Ann, while I have a look around. Probably some practical joker."

"I'm going too," Ann reached for her negligee at the foot of the bed. If Peter were going to do an insane, foolhardy thing like looking around, she would be right behind him.

But just as Peter's hand touched the key in the front door a voice called, "Mr. Peter, please!"

Peter flung the door wide. "Juan, you little devil!"

The small boy stood grinning, pleased with the excitement he had caused. Ann laughed hysterically. "Juan, what do you mean by yelling like that?"

"Mr. Peter, please. I knock and nobody hear me. So I cry like a bird."

"Like a bird?" from Peter.

"Like a devil bird," said Juan.

"CAN you beat it?" Peter said, lost in admiration of Juan's prowess for a moment. "I can

Survivors of South Seas Colony

Dr. Frederik Ritter and Dora Koerwln, pictured above as they relax in the shade of their fragile shelter on Charles Island of the Galapagos group, probably are the sole survivors of a group of health faddists and nudists who settled in the South Seas "Eden". Finding of bodies believed to be those of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wittmer on a nearby island was reported by a fishing boat; others had left the colony last summer.

The Old Gifts

The lean year wages to Christmas. What a pinch, we the empty-handed give. When yesterday are but futility And whose tomorrows with the zeal to live Are all but eaten up? We may not bring New gifts, the choice of wealth, but we can take Some old gifts from our earthly garnering And give them to the world for Christ's sweet sake. For there are still upon life's attic A few old treasures worthy of passing on. Courage forgotten; love that knows not self But only others; virtue men thought gone— We yet may give. If Time's thick dust we stir, We'll find our gold and frankincense and myrrh.—Selected.

West, entertained Saturday at a very beautifully appointed four course luncheon at her home on Division street. In keeping with the yuletide decorations of red and green, the Christmas table with the hostess and honoree were Mrs. R. M. Bryant, Mrs. O. A. Graves and Mrs. W. R. Williams of Hot Springs.

Among the many delightful social functions being given as compliments to Mrs. Teddy Jones, a recent bride, was the bridge given Friday night by Miss Margaret Taylor and Elizabeth White at the home of the former on South Harvey street. The Christmas note was beautifully emphasized in the decorations of the reception room where five tables were arranged for the players with the holiday motif stressed in the tallies and score pads. Christmas candies were served during the game. Attractive favors went to Miss Helen McRae and Mrs. Dan Godbold, mother of the honoree. A beautiful remembrance special collars came for the refreshment hour, when a most tempting salad course was served.

The Oglesby P. T. A. will hold their December meeting Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Oglesby school.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Williams had as Sunday guests, Mrs. Williams' brother, Ted Hollingsworth of Bearden, Ark.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Weisner and daughters, Floy Mae and Gladys Marie, and Miss Ivy Smith spent Sunday with friends in Dierks.

The John Cain chapter, D. A. R. will hold their regular monthly 1 o'clock luncheon on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. R. T. White on North Washington street with Mrs. J. M. Houston and Miss Hattie Anne Fink as hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Ab Hollingsworth and Miss Nancy Fay Williams spent the week end with relatives and friends in Sheridan.

In celebration of her little son Robert Allen's third birthday anniversary, Mrs. B. Fike entertained a group of his young friends on Saturday afternoon at their home on West Second street. The decorations were featured by a beautiful birthday cake topped with three glowing tapers. Following an afternoon of interesting games, Mrs. Fike assisted by Frances Jean Williams and Doris Ann Hutchings served delicious refreshments to Carl Dennis, Joan and Willard Underwood, Joan, Betty Jane and Roy Allen R., Doris and Patsy Hatcher, H. O. Kyles Jr., Jimmie Copeland, Patsy Ann Williams, Bobbie Hendrix and Curtis and Virginia Lee.

Mrs. Glen Williams has returned from a few days visit with relatives in Little Rock.

Misses Marie and Nannie Purkins had as week end guests, Mr. and Mrs. Duval Purkins and little daughter, Nancy Lane and Mrs. Edward Woodford and little daughters, Nancy and Susan.

The Choral Club will meet for practice at 9 o'clock, Wednesday morning at the home of Mrs. ohn P. Cox South Elm street.

C. E. Romig and family of Prescott, were visitors here Sunday. Mr. Romig is manager of the George W. Robinson store at Prescott.

than a corresponding damage to cotton would have been shown in cotton-goods prices. This is because wheat is more perishable than cotton—because we never have the huge stored supplies of wheat that we have of cotton.

But there is hope, even in disaster. Next year's wheat farmer will reap a good reward. He will give us a brand new market for cotton goods.

The government isn't going to cut cotton production as much next year as this past season—and things should be easier for everybody.

New York Giants Capture Pro Title

Defeat Chicago Bears in Thrilling Last-Half Finish

POLO GROUNDS, New York—(AP)—An amazing comeback as any kind of football—college or professional—ever has seen, rocketed the New York Giants into the professional championship Sunday, conquerors of the Chicago Bears, 30 to 13, in a ball game that was more like a fantastic dream.

Trailing 13-to-3 when the second half opened, Ken Strong, an astounding football player, led a fourth quarter attack that scored four touchdowns in the first quarter called the greatest finisher in football.

Strong, himself, scored twice, once on a brilliant 42-yard dash through the Bears' left tackle, again on an eight-yard dash through the same spot, while Ike Franklin, former St. Mary's hero, added once on a forward pass and Ed Danowski, last year's Fordham quarterback, completed the up-rising with a nine yard burst through the Bears' left side. Strong also kicked (of two points after touchdown) and in the first quarter booted a 38-yard field goal, winding up his day with a total of 17 points.

A crowd of 46,000, shivering in the clear cold of the season's climax here, went mad with excitement as the Giants smashed the reign of the Bears, undefeated all season. Twice the Bears beat the Giants in this season's regular campaign, after whipping them, 23 to 21, last year for the league title. The Bears hadn't been beaten up to Sunday since the Giants did it, 5 to 0, in the 1933 season.

Notre Dame Still Great at "Gate"

Breaks Attendance Records Under Coaching of Elmer Layden

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—Winning or losing, Notre Dame is still America's football team.

Elmer Layden's first major league eleven, with a record of six victories and three defeats, has left a trail of record attendance and receipts marks in its wake.

Notre Dame drew the large crowds of the year in Pittsburgh, Chicago, New York, Cleveland and Los Angeles. The 81,000 who jammed into Yankee Stadium for the Army game constituted the great football gathering of the season.

While the 50,000 who saw the Irish whip Southern California Saturday was by no means the largest crowd that has seen Notre Dame play on the coast, it was the biggest throng that saw a contest in Pacific coast territory this fall.

Enthusiasm over Elmer Layden's squad matched the attendance. There has been more genuine interest in the South Bond team this season than at any time since Rockne's death. The hater of Layden's name in Notre Dame tradition undoubtedly accounts for the revival.

Sherman Is Ousted on Rules Defiance

Henderson Coach Resigns on Player Eligibility Dispute

ARKADELPHIA, Ark.—(AP)—J. P. Womack, president of Henderson State Teachers' College here, announced Sunday night that Eugene (Bo) Sherman has offered his resignation as athletic coach, and that the resignation had been accepted.

Expressing regret that Sherman's resignation was necessary, President Womack said a successor may be announced about January 25.

Sherman's resignation followed the Arkansas intercollegiate conference's suspension Saturday of Henderson State for "violation of rules and regulations of the conference." In suspending the school from the conference, the group also approved a motion which provided that no other conference team could play a team coached or directed by Sherman.

The suspension of the school and the removal of Coach Sherman involved the use of alleged ineligible players by the Arkadelphia school. President Womack also announced that intercollegiate athletics for men at Henderson would be suspended until a satisfactory adjustment can be made between conference and school officials.

Total net income reported for 1932 was $11,185,499,309. For 1933 the aggregate was less—$10,645,653,532. The number of individual returns also dropped from 3,769,402 to 3,660,105. But the total tax assessed rose from $324,744,617 to $372,967,761.

An Issue in Congress President Roosevelt, himself, has had little to say about redistribution of wealth, beyond statements incident to the administration's drive to increase wages and spread work. The problem has been argued at length in congress, however, in connection with recent tax legislation. An amendment by Senator Couzens to last winter's bill intended to increase, heavily, the tax rates on the upper brackets was defeated, although most of the Republican and Democratic liberal insurgents voting for it.

Harry Hopkins, relief administrator, recently spoke in favor of smoothing off the peaks of income and filling in the valleys. He said he would like to see the "two classes on the dole," the coupon clippers and those on relief,

V. and J. Tollett Scrapper Captains

Nashville to Lose Nine Players at Close of Scholastic Year

NASHVILLE, Ark.—The annual banquet for the Nashville High School football team was given by the Rotary club Thursday night. V. Tollett and J. Tollett were elected co-captains for 1935. The principal speaker was Coach Ivan H. Grove of Hendrix college, Conway.

Other speakers were C. G. Hughes, president of the Nashville School Board, and E. T. Moody, superintendent of schools. George R. Steele was toastmaster.

The Scrappers will lose nine players next year. Roy Littlefield, Earl Dyer, Lewis Tollett, Briece Darling, Nohn Tollett, Wyatt Hendrick and Clall Williams will graduate and Maurice Gosnell and Raymond Connel will be ineligible because they will be more than 21.

Nineteen players received sweaters. They were: N. Tollett, V. Tollett, L. Tollett, R. Tollett, J. Tollett, Williams, Eugene Hallmark, Dyer, Darling, Littlefield, Connelison, Olin Ball, Hendrick, Carl Hixon, Frank Arnold, Carol Floyd, Lonnie Hatcher, Gosnell and Dean Northworthy.

Total Is Lower

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Three individuals, their names carefully guarded by the treasury, had net incomes aggregating $26,482,811 in 1933 after all lawful deductions and paid the government $6,688,212 in taxes.

The net income of one was over $5,000,000 of another between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000 and of the third between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000. To conceal the identity of these taxpayers the Treasury lumped their incomes together in official reports. Of the 46 with net incomes of $1,000,000 or more 23 fell in the $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 and eight in the $2,000,000 to $3,000,000.

Despite this jump in the larger brackets, the total net income reported in 3,660,105 individual returns was $10,845,653,532, the lowest figure since 1916.

Minnesota Is No. 1 Eleven of Nation

Pittsburgh Ranked Second by Dickinson "Point System"

CHICAGO.—(AP)—Minnesota's great eleven Saturday was ranked as the country's best college football team under the system of rating originated by Prof. Frank G. Dickinson of the University of Illinois.

The Gophers are ranked at the top in spite of the fact that Pittsburgh had a higher "point" rating under the system. Minnesota wins the honor, and possession for one year of the Knute K. Rockne memorial trophy, sponsored by the late Notre Dame wizard's Four Horsemen, Elmer Layden, James Crowley, Harry Stuhldrecher and Don Miller.

Minnesota qualifies under a section of Professor Dickinson's code which provides that an undefeated team is ranked above a team it has defeated, regardless of the point standing.

Minnesota had a point rating of 25.1. Pittsburgh's rating was 24.19, due, Professor Dickinson said, to the fact that Pittsburgh played a more difficult schedule than Minnesota.

The Ratings	W.	L.	T.	Pts.
Minnesota	8	0	0	25.1
Pittsburgh	8	1	0	24.19
Navy	8	1	0	23.00
Illinois	7	1	0	22.01
Rice Institute	9	1	1	21.97
Alabama	9	0	0	21.70
Columbia	7	1	0	21.67
Ohio State	7	1	0	21.51

Chevrolet Sales Peak in November

Largest for That Month Since 1926, Factory Declares

November retail sales in the United States by the Chevrolet Motor Company, totaling 59,819 units, were the largest for that month since 1926 and were exceeded by only one previous November in the history of the company, M. E. Coyle, president, announced. November broke another record of 8 years' standing and it marks the first time since 1926 that sales for the month have exceeded October sales.

Reports from dealers indicate that last month's sales more than doubled the total for November, 1933, and even exceeded the total of 47,803 units sold in November, 1932, which was the biggest year in the history of the company and of the industry in general.

To supply the continued demand for passenger cars and trucks, Chevrolet maintained its production of current models at a high rate through November, operating all of its assembly plants and carrying its manufacturing schedule into December. Last month's production of 48,818 units set a new record for the month of November in the entire history of the company.

Approximately 70 per cent of the month's total represented production for the domestic market, the greater part of the remainder being produced for the growing export trade.

Mr. Coyle pointed out that a demand for the Master models, which has held remarkably firm, has been responsible for the "unusually heavy production.

State's Tigers, 19 to 13, Saturday.

The hectic battle, waged before 18,000 fans who shivered in the cold of a bleak wintry day, brought to a close football strife within the Southeastern Conference for 1934 and the game should go down in history as one of the most exciting ever played on a Southern gridiron. Tennessee's victory also closed the career here of its militant coach, Maj. Robert R. Neyland after nine years. Major Neyland leaves next week for Panama, where the War Department has ordered him to report for two years' duty. He has achieved a record of 76 victories, seven

S. M. U. Beats Washington ST. LOUIS, Mo.—(AP)—Southern Methodist University's aerial stunts struck swiftly Saturday for a second period touchdown, then held off Washington University's Bears to score a 7-to-0 victory on a snow-covered field. Just before half-time, Wilson, 150-pound spark-plug of the Mustangs' attack, who had just entered the game, hurled a 14-yard pass to Louis Smith, who stood in the end zone. Maurice Orr place-kicked the extra point.

That ended the scoring, although each team had several excellent opportunities. Statistically, the Bears had all the better of it in the second half, but they lacked touchdown punch.

showed the need for new legislation. Under the present law, he said, federal agents run into cases they were unable to deal with. He listed examples forged prescriptions, possession of tax paid goods and drug production within the states.

The week-end raids also showed, Anslinger said, that:

1. The peddlers were having a hard time getting down. Much of the stuff seized was adulterated to an unusually great extent.

2. The chief sources of heroin supply at present were the Far East and Bulgaria.

3. Addicts in recent years have switched from morphine to heroin, as a general rule.

"We've broken up some important interstate rings and captured some important narcotic racketeers," Anslinger said.
